

ENGLAND MAKES NAVAL CHANGES IN THE FAR EAST

As Result of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

NO LONGER NEEDS HUGE

CHINA SQUADRON

Singapore, Oct. 31.—The strengthening of the Anglo-Japanese alliance has led to an adjustment of the positions occupied by the naval forces of England in eastern waters. Owing to the strength of the Japanese fleet in the northwestern Pacific, the maintenance of a large China squadron will no longer be necessary, and the fact that the colonial government at Singapore, through its arbitrator, Robert Eagle, is negotiating with the owners of the large dock company at that important position draws attention to the concentration of naval organization in the east at the base of the Malay peninsula.

Singapore under British rule has made vast strides and is now a city of many beautiful squares and public buildings. The cathedral, which can accommodate 1,000 persons, is built on the right of theavenagh. Bridges, and facing the sea front and recreation ground. It is attended by the governor of the island and many of the influential European residents. Europeans are the principal attendants at the cathedral, but many Eurasians and a few Chinese are found among the congregations.

In connection with the cathedral are schools and missions for Eurasians, Malays, and Chinese children. Close by is the large public school known as Raffles school, also Raffles hotel (the chief in Singapore) and on the green stretch in front stands the monument to Sir Stamford Raffles, to whom Singapore owes so much of its present commercial importance.

English men-of-war are berthed at Tanjong Pagar and Borneo wharves and replenished by the T. P. company; but in 1898-1899, considering the troubles then existing in the east, the British government purchased large quantities of coal at Singapore and issued them to their own ships at Tanjong Pagar. The dock side is built over with many workshops, foundries and garages, and presents a busy scene day and night.

England's New Port.
The British government has in hand the formation of a new port in the Red sea, which will in future be known as Port Sudan. It will undoubtedly serve as an important coaling station, lying as it does between Suez and Aden. There is an excellent water supply at the new port which now surpasses the old and once famous port of Suakin. The last shipment of goods was sent during September to the old port, which was so well known during the Sudan war.

Lord Cromer, British high commissioner in Egypt, successful negotiator with the khedive for the acquisition of a site.

The railway station from Berbera to the Red Sea has been deflected to Port Sudan, and it is now on the outskirts of that town. It is hoped that in the near future this latest addition to the ports of the empire will become the New Orleans of the east, owing to the growth of the cotton-growing industry in the Sudan. It was only in January last that the warship Sealark was sent to survey the Red Sea coast with the view of determining the position of an improved port, and it was in that month that Sir William Garstin visited Sheikh Barud and reported on the possible formation of a new port at that place. His advice was taken, and within the space of nine months a new British coaling station and commercial port has arisen out of the coral rock and desert of the Red Sea shore.

St. Louis Wool.
St. Louis, Oct. 31.—Wool market, steady; unchanged.

Boston Wool.
Boston, Oct. 31.—There is renewed interest in the wool market. Piece wools are generally quiet, but strong. The general movement has taken place in all grades of Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces.

There is a rather better demand and freer buying. Woolen mills have shown more disposition to buy clothing grades, while the call from worsted mills is also more liberal. Prices as a whole are fairly steady, but some shading has had to be done to attract buyers. Local stocks in the hands of dealers are moderate, worsted grades being very closely sold up. Manufacturers, as a rule, have large supplies of wool bought ahead, and many of the larger mills would be able to go a long time without buying more raw material. Advances from foreign markets note firm conditions. The sales in Melbourne are progressing, although few wools for this country are shown as yet. At prices ruling in Melbourne the cost laid down here would be about 80 cents for 70's fine, with 40's at 45 cents. The next London auction sale of wool will begin November 28 with offerings of 110,000 bales, of which about 70,000 bales will be new wools. Piece wools on the local market rule slow, with Ohio washed delaines at 37 1/2 @ 38 cents, and XX and above at 36 @ 37 cents, while No. 1 washed is quiet at 35 @ 40 cents for Ohio. Unwashed Ohio fleeces are quoted at 25 cents, with delaine at 30 cents and unmerchandise lots at 1 @ 2 cents above unwashed. For medium fleeces the market is quiet at 24 cents for quarters and half blood unwashed, with three-eighths bloods at 24 @ 35 cents. Pulled wools are in slow demand, with the range on B supers about 54 @ 55 cents as a scored basis, the latter for very fine white lots. Other grades are quiet, with the market ranging as to quality. Territory wools are firm, with staple grades closely sold up. The range for fine is on the scored basis 72 @ 75 cents, while fine medium and staple medium will command 62 @ 70 cents, with medium at 55 @ 63 cents. Some eight months' Texas spring wools are selling on the scored basis of 70 @ 72 cents, with new Texas wools being bought there at 31 cents, which would make them cost on the scored basis about 65 cents laid down here. Oregon wools are well cleaned up.

TRANSFER OF GARRISON.

Canada Will Take Possession at Halifax, November 15.
Ottawa, Oct. 31.—The department of militia has been informed by the war office that the British troops will be withdrawn from Halifax without further delay and that the Canadian garrison may assume charge of the fortress on November 15. This information puts an end to the feeling of uncertainty which has existed for a long time regarding the transfer of the Atlantic military station to Canadian authorities. The minister of militia has been ready to put the new system into effect for some time, and considerable inconvenience was caused by the delay in England in issuing the order for the withdrawal of the old garrison.

Major General Grierson, of the home intelligence office, who is in Canada, called the British officer, asking it to expedite matters, and his message has had the desired effect.

MESILLA VALLEY PEOPLE HAVE DONE THEIR SHARE OF IT

All Land Necessary for Dam Signed Up.

PRESIDENT HOLT ANNOUNCES
ASSOCIATION HAS SUCCEEDED

It will not be the fault of the people of the Mesilla valley if the great proposed storage reservoir at Eagle is not built, and indeed there is no reason now for further fear that the great project will not be carried through.

The people on the New Mexico side were required to have signed over to the government a total of 110,000 acres of land for their share. The people of the El Paso valley were required to sign up 20,000 acres.

When he was in Albuquerque last Saturday Hon. H. B. Holt, of Las Cruces, president of the Elephant Butte Water Users' association, said to the Morning Journal that the association had thus far signed up 90,000 acres, and that one contract about to be signed, would add another 10,000 acres.

Since that statement, an additional thousand acres have been signed up and Mr. Holt announces confidently that by the end of the present week the additional 9,000 acres needed will have been signed and New Mexico's share closed.

The government owns between five and ten thousand acres in the valley on the New Mexico side and this will of course, be signed up.

A meeting of the board of governors of the Water Users' association will be held in Las Cruces on the 6th of November when the final canvas of the lands will be made. On that date several committees will report and it is stated confidently that the result of this meeting will be to show more than the required 110,000 acres on the books of the association under contract.

Urgent calls are being issued in the newspapers of El Paso to the people of the El Paso valley to follow the example of New Mexico and sign up their lands. The importance of the project is urged eloquently and there is little doubt that the Texas association will also be successful.

It is expected that the government will be prepared to enter into contracts with the two associations at once and that on their conclusion the reclaiming of the Mesilla valley will begin at once. This section of the work will cost $175,000.

There seems now no chance of a hitch in the tremendous project which will make the lower Rio Grande valley the garden spot of the west.
